

A TRAVELING SHOW

A Traveling Show is centered around a series of mailed exchanges between the artists Matt Keegan (based in New York) and Kay Rosen (based in Gary, Indiana). The packages consist of drawings, collages, photographs, print clippings, small sculptures, found objects, and the like. The mailings include personal stories, silly imagery, or relate to a piece of art they are working on. Each artist plays with language, humor, and wit. The exhibition focuses on this conversation between two artists of different generations and how they inspire and encourage one another.

This exhibition is family friendly. Some of the artworks are word puzzles and conceal messages in the work. Although the content is often conceptual, young viewers will be drawn to the large and colorful works.

Families are encouraged to visit the Front Desk to pick up an Art Guide to use in exploring the galleries.

Contemporary Arts Museum Houston

Family Review

on view

October 8, 2016–January 15, 2017

Brown Foundation Gallery